

10 signs of a good tutor

Parents who pay attention to the quality of knowledge your research paper writing service child understand that the combination of school individually is optimal. Therefore, many parents hire Tutors for extra classes with the child. Many seniors understand the need for additional preparation for exams and entrance to UNIVERSITY. By what signs it is possible to find a really good tutor?

1. Education and experience a tutor

Pedagogical education and long experience in the system, of course, is a major plus. Possession of a wide range of teaching methods, the optimal choice of forms of work according to age and physiological characteristics of the child will make classes as effective as possible.

2. Tutor explains the objectives entrusted to it by parents

Can only fill in the "gaps in knowledge" the personal or you need help in preparing for competitions and contests.

3. The high cost of services

Most often preparing for the lesson requires time expenditure on the part of the tutor: to select material from a variety of sources, to analyze it, depending on the abilities of the student. If the tutor does not "bother" with these problems, most likely the value of his work will not be high.

4. The tutor works at the school

School teacher-tutor may not be the best choice, his experience with a team of students does not always work on individual lessons. However, ongoing work by the teachers at the school allows him to be aware of innovations, changes in programs.

5. Tutor conducts classes in one discipline

The competence of a specialist in several disciplines, as a rule, lower in most questions. Even the combination of homogeneous subjects is not always the best.

6. A true professional does not build forecasts at the first lesson

Only detailed observation of the child is given the opportunity to make plans and to make specific predictions.

7. A good tutor gives complete information about yourself

He will tell you about the types of assistance provided, what children prefer to work.

8. The appearance of the tutor is sympathetic

Even if the teacher has seven spans in a forehead, but causes negative emotions, his work is useless. Feature of child psychology is the relationship between the individual teachers and their subjects.

9. The results of the first classes

An experienced tutor will inquire about the psychological characteristics of the child, mode of his day, interests, and aptitudes.

10. Neither coach does not guarantee for the unified state exam (EIT)

A good tutor will make every effort to do so.
